Australia Residential Development of the Year Located in Camden

Mayor of Camden, Councillor Lara Symkowiak congratulated Harrington Grove following the announcement that the development was awarded the 2014 Australian Residential Development of the Year by the Urban Development Institute of Australia at the National Awards for Excellence Gala Dinner on Friday night.

The Awards celebrates contemporary knowledge, skills and innovation in the urban development industry and recognises outstanding achievements of high quality developments.

Mayor of Camden, Councillor Lara Symkowiak congratulated the team at Harrington Grove Estate on their achievement.

“This Award is prestigious and I congratulate the Managing Director, Terry Goldacre and his staff on their success”.

“Harrington Grove is a fantastic example of a well-designed project that focusses on innovation and their community by providing a range of first class facilities exclusively for their residents”.

“Camden Council is proud to have a premium residential community in the heart of our Local Government Area that provides a quality living environment. The Harrington Grove development is consistent with our community’s values and expectations and helps ensure Camden continues to be a sustainable community that is the place of choice for people to live in South West Sydney”.

“I look forward to continuing working with Harrington Grove as well as other developments in our area to achieve Council’s and the community’s vision for the future of our LGA” she said.
