Legal matters for young people

Legal matters that affect young adults will be the subject of a free talk by legal experts.

Particular issues covered by professionals from Macarthur Legal Centre include social media, the workplace, share houses and more.

“Many issues faced by young people today are new and unique to this generation and require specialist advice to understand their legal rights,” said Mayor Lara Symkowiak.

“Knowing the legalities will assist young people to make good decisions and empower them to stand up for themselves,” Cr Symkowiak said.

This program is part of a suite of free talks about legal matters that will be presented by Macarthur Legal Centre in 2018. A full list is available on the library website.

The Legal Help for Young Adults will be held at 3pm, Wednesday 24 January at Narellan Library. Places are limited and bookings can be made on the library website, www.library/camden.nsw.gov.au.
